

Jim Benning: Here Today, Gone Tomorrow?

Vancouver, B.C., June 28, 2019 – After making a splash at the NHL Draft in his trade for J.T. Miller, and on the eve of NHL Free Agency, will Jim Benning's bold moves lead to him returning as the Vancouver Canucks' General Manager in 2020?

Canucks fans and B.C. bettors have the opportunity to wager on PlayNow.com if Benning will be extended and remain the club's GM for the 2020-21 season.

Currently, the odds are even for Benning to be extended and return as GM for the 2020-21 season. However, his high-risk, high-reward trades and potential decisions when the free-agency period opens could lead to him not being back in Vancouver next season (7/10).

Additionally, the Canucks have been linked to impending free agent defenceman Tyler Myers. Bettors can wager on if the club will sign the hulking defenceman (2/5) or not (7/4).

Hey Jim

Hate sending this note but its bugging me a little

Just saw that you guys have a bet out there if Jim Benning gets fired

That seems a little off to me – just me or agree?

We're taking the bet on Jim down. So you know it was worded around whether he'd get an extension, but still....sorry about that. If Jim needs an apology, let me know.

Jim - sorry just got out of a meeting. Thanks for responding- appreciate it

Might have jumped too fast as I just read the article without checking actual bet on line

But again thanks for taking off
